

New Phishing Scam

Good afternoon Rice Colleagues,

There is an email scam pretending to be from various Rice University email administrator.

The Subject contains "This is your email administrator"

The Body looks like this...

ATTENTION!

Dear User,

This is your webmail administrator. Please, be informed that the email server has just been upgraded and your email needs to be reset immediately.

This process is to keep the Rice University system server updated and protected as always.

CLICK BELOW TO RESET YOUR EMAIL NOW:

<http://webmail.rice.edu.login.laprima.com.au/index.htm>

Regards,

Rice University

Do not respond or take action on this malicious message other than deleting the message. This message attempts to trick you into following a link that will either attempt to steal your login credentials or load malicious software onto your machine. If you suspect that you have received one of these messages and need assistance in disposing of the message or if you accidentally opened the attachment or web link, contact the Help Desk: helpdesk@rice.edu or 713.348.4357.